

learning at home feedback

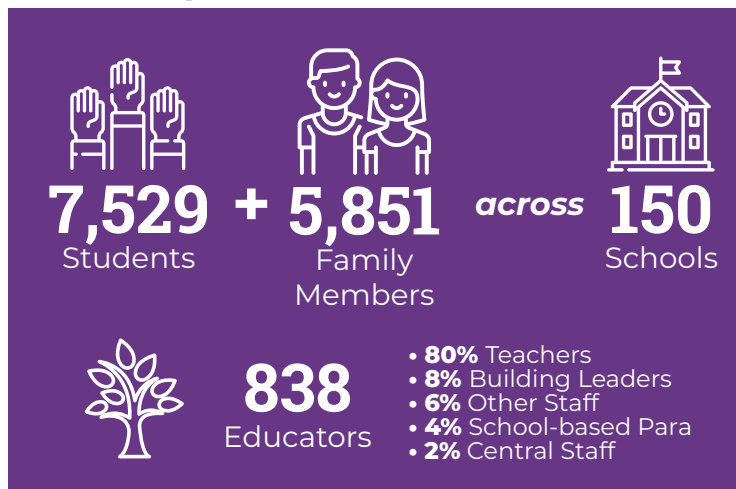

SURVEY #2 PRELIMINARY FINDINGS

ONLINE-ONLY SURVEY TAKEN APRIL 24 – MAY 3, 2020

Why Are We Doing Surveys?

- To understand how to better meet student, educator, and family needs while learning at home
- To see how needs change over time with follow-up surveys
- To improve programs and technology to support learning

Who Responded?

Should We Continue?

Successes of Learning at Home

- Nearly all students and families who answered the survey said they were able to do schoolwork at home.
- Most students, parents, and teachers thought learning at home went well.
- Nearly everyone agreed that learning at home should continue at this time.
- Most students said they reviewed material as well as learned new things.

Learning Engagement

Did you or your family engage in schoolwork this week?

The majority of respondents reported engaging in learning by:

- Submitting school assignments
- Completing activities posted online
- Emailing or chatting with a teacher

How is it going?

- About 70% of students, families, and educators who responded to Wave 2 of the survey reported remote learning went well/very well.

How are you feeling about learning at home?

- Most students, families, and educators continued to report that they were feeling okay about learning at home.

How much help do students need with schoolwork?

- In Wave 2, students continue to report needing little to no help with schoolwork, while families continue to report that students do need help. Additionally, educators reported students needed more help to complete work in Wave 2 than in Wave 1.

Challenges Experienced by Students & Families

- The second wave of the survey was only offered online; therefore, all students and families may not have been able to respond.
- Some students, families, and teachers said learning at home was not going so well.
- Specific challenges with learning at home included needing help with schoolwork, school not being the focus right now, and concerns outside of school.
- Families said it was a challenge to help students with schoolwork.
- A very small group of students were having a hard time and wanted to talk to someone about it.